AN INTERNATIONAL EVENT DEDICATED TO PEACE

The Normandy World Peace Forum is a new international event organised by the Normandy Region. It will be held annually on the day after the commemoration events for the 6 June 1944 Allied landings and the Battle of Normandy.

This forum is an opportunity for reflection and discussion on tensions around the world and peace-building. It is run by experts in geopolitics, alongside representatives of States, the academic world and civil society.

On 7 and 8 June in Caen, at the Abbaye aux Dames, the 2018 forum offers two days of conferences, debates and meetings around the theme "Globalising peace: new wars, new peace". More specifically, geographical debates on the situation in Syria, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Libya, Afghanistan and in the Balkans, and thematic workshops on nuclear deterrence, war journalism, child soldiers, and new weapons and threats will be proposed to the public.

The collective imagination often refers to war as a head-on opposition between two or more states. This vision of armed conflict seems today to be no longer valid because of the proliferation of non-state agencies. The multitude of state and non-state agencies involved in the war in Syria, and the new form of terrorism that we have been experiencing for many years are just two examples out of many. At the same time, the causes of contemporary conflicts are tending to change considerably: scarcity of resources, rising water levels, increasing inequalities, and rising prices of raw materials are all factors that give rise to conflicts.

This forum will also be marked by intense moments of emotion and discussion with the general public: a concert for peace by Youssou N'Dour in Omaha Beach, events in the Village for Peace in the park of the Abbaye aux Dames, and the European programme for education in Human Rights in which eight hundred young people will take part.

Through this event that we are about to experience, you can see that the Normandy Region is more than ever committed to embodying peace and keeping it alive.

President of the Normandy Region and the Regions of France Association, former minister*

ABBAYE AUX DAMES

The Normandy World Peace Forum welcomes you to the Abbaye aux Dames in Caen, the headquarters of the Normandy Region.

The Abbaye-aux-Dames, like the Abbaye aux Hommes, headquarters of the City of Caen, was created by Duke Guillaume and his wife Mathilde of Flanders in the 11th century, making Caen a centrepiece of the duchy of Normandy, a few steps away from a powerful castle. After seven centuries of Benedictine presence, the French Revolution marked a turning point in the history of the Abbaye aux Dames.

Having become a national property, it was in turn a barracks (1792-1809), a beggars' home (1809-1818), the Hôtel-Dieu (1823-1908) and finally the Saint-Louis hospice until 1984.

The Michel d'Ornano park (1992), which already existed at the time of the abbey, whose rows of lime trees are listed, is dominated by an imposing Lebanon cedar planted in December 1849.

In choosing to move into these beautiful buildings, which were completely rebuilt in the 18th century, the Normandy Region has reformed a link with one of the finest pages of its history.

› CONFERENCE: CONFLICTS, TENSIONS AND CONTEMPORARY VIOLENCE: THE STATE OF THE WORLD 10.30 AM • 12.00 NOON

The collective imagination often refers to war as a head-on opposition between two states. This vision of armed conflict seems today to be no longer valid because of the proliferation of non-state agencies.

How can we characterise, identify and define these new forms of violence?

This introductory conference lays the groundwork for the debate on the changing concept of war and draws up an inventory of contemporary conflicts.

› GEOGRAPHICAL AND THEMATIC DEBATES 2.00 pm · 3.15 pm | Salles précisées sur place

→ DEBATE HOW SHOULD INTERNATIONAL LAW REFLECT NEW CONFLICTS?

The inability of the international community to act in Syria, the emergence of new unregulated combat methods and the complexity of international criminal justice illustrate the difficulties faced by international law. In the face of these new challenges, what should be the role of international law?

Moderator:

- › Rahma Sophia Rachdi, director of the French office for United States Press Agency

Speakers:

- › Abdelwahab Biad, lecturer at Rouen Normandy University, associate member of the Thucyde Centre
- › Hauwa Ibrahim, human rights lawyer, Sakharov prize winner
- › Marcelo Kohen, secretary general of the International Law Institute
- › Eva Svoboda, deputy director of international law and humanitarian policies, International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC)

→ DEBATE DETERRENCE, PROLIFERATION, DISARMAMENT: WHAT IS THE FUTURE OF MILITARY NUCLEAR ACTIVITIES?

Since they were first used in 1945, nuclear weapons have become a central feature of the international geopolitical scene. For some major powers, they continue to represent the ultimate deterrent, while for others, non-proliferation and disarmament have become major international issues.

Moderator:

- › Elena Lazarou, thematic analyst, European Parliament research service

Speakers:

- › Tiphaine de Champchesnel, researcher in nuclear deterrence and disarmament, IRSEM
- › Jean-Marie Collin, spokesman for the International Campaign to Abolish Nuclear Weapons (ICAN)
- › Céline Jurgensen, diplomat, director of Strategy, CEA military applications branch

→ DEBATE WARTIME JOURNALISM: HOW CAN THE UNSPEAKABLE BE TOLD? In partnership with the Bayeux-Calvados-Normandy Award

They are on the scene of the most violent conflicts. What drives war reporters? How can we convey to the public the feelings aroused by the daily horror of these bloody conflicts? While the development of technological resources has profoundly modified the working conditions of reporters, their dedication to their profession has not changed.

Moderator:

- › Samuel Forey, journalist, winner of the Albert Londres Prize and the 2017 Bayeux award for his coverage of the Battle of Mosul

Speakers:

- › Renaud Girard, senior reporter at Le Figaro and writer
- › Rémy Ourdan, senior reporter at Le Monde
- › Jon Swain, Sunday Times journalist

→ DEBATE WHAT ARE THE SOLUTIONS FOR A NEW LIBYAN STATE?

Since 2011 and the fall of the Muammar Gaddafi regime, Libya has been immersed in an extremely unstable political and security situation. In a context that continues to be difficult, how can the emergence of a new Libyan state be encouraged?

Moderator:

- › Neila Latrous, head of department Middle East, Maghreb, Jeune Afrique

Speakers:

- › Wahid Abdel Meguid, Director of the Al-Ahram Egypt centre for political and strategic studies (ACPSS)
- › Abdulhamid Al Dabaiba, founder of the Libya's Future movement, former president of the Lybian Investment and Development Company (LIDCO)
- › Frédéric de Saint-Sernin, deputy general manager of ACTED, former French secretary of state for regional development
- › Mary Fitzgerald, researcher and consultant specialising in Euro-Mediterranean issues, European Young Leader (EYL40)

→ DEBATE DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC OF CONGO: HOW CAN THE INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY BE MOBILISED?

Since the early 2000s, the number of deaths related to the many conflicts that are disfiguring this country, one of the largest in Africa, has grown still further. In spite of this, the international community is failing to become sufficiently involved to allow peace to make a lasting return to the DRC.

Moderator:

- › Séverine Autesserre, professor, Department of political science, Barnard Faculty of Columbia University

Speakers:

- › Rémy Bazenguissa-Ganga, director of studies at the Ecole des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales (EHESS)
- › Mgr Fulgence Muteba, bishop committed to reconciliation, Diocese of Kilwa-Kasenga former Katanga
- › Thierry Zobel, PhD in geopolitics, specialist in sub-Saharan Africa

→ DEBATE WESTERN BALKANS: ENDLESS POST-WAR

Nearly a quarter of a century after the end of the Yugoslav wars, the Western Balkan countries are not able to emerge from an interminable "transition". Severely hit by the 2008 crisis, all these countries are suffering massive structural unemployment and political power monopolised by leaders with nationalist tendencies. As new social dynamics emerge, will the Balkans be able to break the deadly status quo that has prevailed since weapons fell silent?

Moderator:

- › Alexandra Kamenskaya, former director of the RIA Novosti Agency in Paris

Speakers:

- › Isabelle Ioannides, thematic analyst, European Parliament research service
- › Naim Rashiti, executive Director of Balkans Policy Research Group
- › Igor Stiks, Croatian writer and philosopher

› GEOGRAPHICAL AND THEMATIC DEBATES 3.30 PM · 4.45 PM | Salles précisées sur place

› DEBATE CHILD SOLDIERS: PREVENTING THEM FROM BEING RECRUITED AND ENSURING THEIR REINTEGRATION

The enlistment of children in armed forces is formally prohibited by international conventions and has disastrous consequences for their development and their return to civilian life.

This workshop will be an opportunity to learn from different experiences relating to their reintegration around the world, especially in Colombia.

Moderator:

› Cynthia Illouz, editor-in-chief of the magazine Chari-T

Speakers:

- › Juan Arredondo, photojournalist, 2016 recipient of the International Committee of the Red Cross (CICR) Humanitarian Visa d'Or award
- › Philippe Brizemur, jointly in charge of Amnesty International's Committee on the Rights of the Child
- › Michel Chikwanine, former child soldier, worker for peace
- › Juvence Ramasy, lecturer at the University of Toamasina, Madagascar

› DEBATE WHAT IS THE DIVIDING LINE BETWEEN ARMS TRAFFIC AND ARMS TRADE?

Arms trafficking is today one of the most prolific illegal trades, with an estimated worth of several billion dollars a year. These different sectors question the ability of states to trace military equipment sold or delivered abroad.

Moderator:

› Georges Berghezan, researcher at the research and information group on peace and security (Groupe de recherche et d'information sur la paix et la sécurité - GRIP)

Speakers:

- › Jean-Charles Antoine, former senior officer of the French Gendarmerie, author of the book Au coeur des trafic d'armes Des Balkans aux banlieues ("At the heart of arms trafficking: from the Balkans to the suburbs").
- › Frédéric Doidy, head of the central office for combating organised crime (Office central de lutte contre le crime organisé - OCLCO)
- › Jacques Launay, Admiral (2s), state councillor in extraordinary service

› DEBATE RELIGIONS: EXCUSES FOR WAR OR FACTORS OF PEACE?

Since the end of the Cold War and the collapse of the USSR, it is sometimes said that the world is witnessing a religious comeback internationally. Increasingly instrumentalised by violent groups, religions can become a pretext for war.

Conversely, religions are in many cases a factor of pacification and those who practise them are at the forefront of prevention and conflict resolution. What is the real place of religion in contemporary conflicts?

Moderator:

› Gill Scherto, executive secretary and researcher at the Guerrand-Hermès peace foundation

Speakers:

- › Jacques Garat, grand officer for the Republic, secularism and school, representative of the Grand Orient of France (GODF)
- › Mgr Fulgence Muteba, bishop committed to reconciliation, Diocese of Kilwa-Kasenga former Katanga
- › Philippe Perchoc, thematic analyst, European Parliament research service
- › Brannon Wheeler, history professor at the United States Naval Academy, Fulbright researcher at the Royal Institute for Interfaith Studies in Amman

› DEBATE G5 SAHEL: AN IDEAL FRAMEWORK FOR PEACEKEEPING?

The Sahel is facing major security challenges. Many terrorist groups have settled in the region and regularly threaten the territorial and political integrity of the states there. G5 Sahel now stands for the regional response to these challenges, even though its ability to stabilise the region in a sustainable manner remains to be demonstrated and it continues to face numerous financial and logistical obstacles.

Moderator:

› Neila Latrous, head of department Middle East, Maghreb, Jeune Afrique

Speakers:

- › Jean-Marc Châtaignier, ambassador, special envoy for the Sahel, French Ministry of Foreign Affairs
- › Nicolas Desgrais, PhD student in international relations, Brussels School of International Studies
- › Serge Michailof, associate researcher at IRIS, former director of operations of the French development agency (Agence française de développement - AFD), former director at the World Bank
- › Boukary Sangaré, anthropologist, University of Leiden

› DEBATE AFGHANISTAN: HOW CAN THE CURRENT SPIRAL BE STOPPED?

Between 2012 and 2015, nearly 90 percent of NATO-led international troops withdrew from Afghanistan. In the first three months of 2018, Kabul was hit by eight attacks, killing over 200 people.

How can such a downturn be explained, after almost two decades of international presence?

Why are the Afghan state and the successor to the ISAF International Force since 2015, the Resolute Support mission, unable to prevent this deterioration?

Moderator:

› Dawood Azami, multimedia writer at the BBC World Service, European Young Leader (EYL40)

Speakers:

- › Alain Boinet, founder of the NGO Solidarités International
- › Wolfgang Danspeckgruber, founder and director of the Liechtenstein Institute on Self-Determination, professor at the Princeton University
- › Christian Destremau, World war two historian, awarded by the Académie française biographical prize
- › Alpaslan Özerdem, professor, co-director of the Centre for Trust, Peace and social relations

› DEBATE KOREAN PENINSULA: A BIG STEP TOWARDS RECONCILIATION?

Engaged in a cold war for nearly 65 years, the two Koreas have seen their relations starting to thaw over recent months. The United States and China are changing their tune and agreeing to meet North Korean leader Kim Jong-Un. Is this just another episode of appeasement before the resumption of tension, or a strategy by North Korea to end the sanctions that are suffocating it and gain time to achieve its nuclear ambition?

Can the two Koreas really take their destiny into their own hands without being the economic and geostrategic toy of the great powers around them, and start a lasting peace process?

Moderator:

› Lina Sankari, international journalist, L'Humanité

Speakers:

- › Antoine Bondaz, Researcher at the Foundation for strategic research (Fondation pour la recherche stratégique - FRS) and teacher at Sciences Po
- › Jean-François di Meglio, president of the Asia Centre Think Tank
- › Myung-ilm Park, Professor at Yonsei University and Director of the Kim Dae-jung Presidential Bookstore

→ CONFERENCE: TERRORISM AND NEW FORMS OF VIOLENCE: HOW TO COPE?

5.30 PM • 6.45 PM

The emergence of a new form of terrorism at the dawn of the 21st century is one of the notable developments of modern wars. This threat calls for global responses. And yet the international community is struggling to find cross-cutting solutions that go further than security cooperation. In this conference accounts by political and civil society representatives about recent terrorist acts and new forms of violence will be presented.

→ CONFERENCE: WHAT ARE THE FACTORS OF DESTABILIZATION BEHIND TOMORROW'S CONFLICTS?

10.30 AM • 12.00 NOON

Driven by new momentum, the origins of contemporary conflicts are tending to change considerably. Scarcity of resources, rising water levels, increasing inequalities, rising prices of raw materials ... all these new causes foretell tomorrow's conflicts.

Introduction by Jean Fabre, former deputy director of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP)

Keynote :

› Ban Ki-moon, 8th secretary general of the UN

Moderator: Michael Frendo, former Minister of Foreign Affairs of Malta

→ DEBATE COMMEMORATING, RECOUNTING, EDUCATING: HOW CAN A PEACE CULTURE BE FOUNDED?

Memory education, education for human rights and citizenship, education for sustainable development goals... Many forms of education favour and strengthen the sense of belonging to a community. And yet recent controversies in the United States around Confederate monuments or the appearance of new forms of radicalisation show that it is not so simple to found a true culture of peace that helps people to live together.

Moderator:

› Thierry Rabiller, editor-in-chief of Paris Normandie

Speakers:

- › Jo Berry, founder of "Building bridges for Peace"
- › Latifa Ibn Ziaten, founder of the "Imad-Ibn-Ziaten Association for Youth and Peace"
- › Marwa Mansouri, president of the association "Cultivons la Paix", founder and general secretary of the association Coexistence
- › Pierre-François Veil, lawyer, president of the French Committee for Yad Vashem

→ DEBATE INNOVATION AND TECHNOLOGY: NEW WEAPONS OR NEW THREATS?

The spectacular development of new technologies, particularly in the fields of information and communication, is having a major impact in the military and security environment. These new technologies, enabling people to fight remotely on new fronts such as the Internet, and with new means such as drones, robots, etc. are redefining modern conflicts.

Moderator:

› Dominique Desaunay, journalist at Radio France International (RFI)

Speakers:

- › Vice-admiral Arnaud Coustillière, director general of information and communication systems of the ministry of the armed forces
- › Général Jean-Paul Paloméros, former chief of staff of the French air force and allied commander Transformation at NATO.
- › Deborah L. Wheeler, professor of political science, United States Naval Academy

→ DEBATE CLIMATE CHANGE: THE WAR OF TOMORROW?

Throughout the world, the effects of climate change are starting to have a real impact on people. Rising water levels, displaced people, scarcity of resources, natural disasters: these are all major events that suggest that climate change may be the new war of tomorrow.

Moderator:

› Hassan Tlili, journalist, Monte-Carlo Doualiya (France Médias Monde)

Speakers:

- › Magnus Berntsson, president of the assembly of European Regions and R20 - Region for Climate Action
- › Annick Hiensch, Political Affairs Officer, United Nations Liaison Office for Peace and Security
- › Valéry Laramée de Tannenberg, editor of the Journal of the Environment, author of the book Le réchauffement climatique, menace pour la démocratie? (Is global warming a threat to democracy?)

→ DEBATE UKRAINE: AN EXAMPLE OF A “HYBRID CONFLICT”?

Hybrid conflicts are a new type of conflict involving all types of state and non-state agencies, thus disrupting the conventional distinction between military and civilians. They are also defined by the use of conventional and unconventional means of combat and by the fact that these are not limited to a battlefield or even to a specific physical area. Is the conflict that has been going on since 2014 in Donbass, the eastern part of Ukraine, a particularly relevant example of a “hybrid conflict”?

Moderator:

- › Monika Nogaj, head of External Policies unit, European Parliament research service

Speakers:

- › Antoine Arjakovsky, research director at the Collège des Bernardins
- › Alexandre Orlov, Ambassador, member of the “Leaders for Peace” foundation, executive secretary general of the Trianon Dialogue
- › Konstantin Von Eggert, journalist and political scientist, Chief editor of Dodj TV

→ DEBATE YEMEN: THE WAR BEHIND CLOSED DOORS?

The civil war raging in Yemen since 2015 only rarely features in international news. Is the war in Yemen an example of a war behind closed doors, representative of the critical role of information in our perception of conflict and the ability of the international community to mobilise?

Speakers:

- › Philippe Boloïon, Human Rights Watch, deputy director, advocacy
- › Laurent Bonnefoy, political scientist specialised in the Arabian Peninsula, researcher at CNRD, author of “Le Yémen : de l’Arabie heureuse à la guerre” (Yemen: from happy Arabia to war)

→ DEBATE SYRIA: HOW CAN THE PEACE PROCESS BE INITIATED?

Seven years after the outbreak of the war in Syria, peace seems impossible to achieve as the positions of the various stakeholders in the field are irreconcilable. Faced with a multitude of agencies and demands, how can a viable peace process be started?

Moderator:

- › Anaïs Renevier, independent journalist

Speakers:

- › Valérie Crova, senior reporter for France Culture and Radio France, Middle East specialist
- › Salam Kawakibi, director of the Arab centre for research and political studies in Paris
- › Deborah Wheeler, professor of political science, United States Naval Academy

→ DEBATE WHAT RESPONSE SHOULD BE MADE TO THE REFUGEE CRISIS?

In 2016, 22.5 million people were refugees around the world and 40.5 million were internally displaced. Given the magnitude of these figures, the international community is struggling to develop cross-cutting, common responses, even though a legal framework exists.

Moderator:

- › Boštjan Videmšek, journalist and author, war reporter and foreign correspondent, European Young Leader (EYL 40)

Speakers:

- › Diane Binder, vice-president, International Development, Africa and Indian Ocean, Suez Group, European Young Leader (EYL40)
- › Ralf Gruenert, representative of the Office of the High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) for France and Monaco
- › Jean-Jacques Poumo Leumbe, President of Action for the protection in Africa of internally displaced and environmental migrants (Action pour la protection en Afrique des déplacés internes et migrants environnementaux - APADIME)

→ DEBATE WOMEN’S RIGHTS: INDISPENSABLE FACTORS FOR LASTING PEACE?

The positive role of women in the emergence, construction and consolidation of democracies and the rule of law is well established. Recognised under the Sustainable Development Goals, women’s rights have been identified by the UN as indispensable factors for lasting peace.

Moderator:

- › Frédérique Bedos, founder of the Imagine project

Speakers:

- › Nicole Ameline, former minister, president of the UN Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW)
- › Celine Bardet, co-founder and president of the association We are not weapons of war

AND THEMATIC DEBATES 3.30 PM • 4.45 PM | Salles précisées sur place

→ DEBATES THE ISRAELI-PALESTINIAN CONFLICT: IS PEACE IMPOSSIBLE?

The Israeli-Palestinian conflict is probably the most publicised conflict since the end of the Second World War. But the very origin of the conflict remains unclear for most of us as the causes are many: territorial, religious or access to natural resources. 25 years after the hope raised by the Oslo Accords, the positions of the different parties seem to be moving further and further apart from each other.

Moderator:

> Matt Qvortrup, deputy editor-in-chief of the European Political Science Review

Speakers:

- > Yossi Beilin, former Israeli negotiator of the Oslo Accords, former Minister of Justice of Israel and Member of the Knesset
- > Alain Dieckhoff, Director of research at CNRS
- > Elias Zananiri, vice chairman of the PLO committee for interaction with Israeli society
- > Mounir Anastas, Ambassador, alternate permanent delegate of Palestine to UNESCO

→ DEBATE A EUROPE OF DEFENCE: AT LAST?

Since France's rejection of the European Defence Community (EDC) in 1954, a European Defence programme, or rather its absence, has become over time a symbol of the limits of European integration. However, in recent years, because of the major security challenges facing Europe and the destabilization of its borders, the European Defence programme has made a major comeback on the European political agenda.

Speakers:

- > Etienne Bassot, Head of the European Parliament Research Service (EPRS)
- > André Dumoulin, author of La politique européenne de sécurité et de défense commune (The European Security and Defense Policy)
- > Guillaume Klossa, writer, director of the European broadcasting union and founder of the EuropaNova think tank
- > Jean-Pierre Maulny, Deputy Director of the Institute of International and Strategic Relations (Institut de Relations Internationales et Stratégiques - IRIS)

→ DEBATE CULTURE AND SPORT: VECTORS OF PEACE?

At the PyeongChang Olympics (South Korea) in February 2018, North Korea showed another image by sending a delegation of athletes to its neighbour to the South. Where the most seasoned diplomats have often failed, can Olympic values bring the most closed states on the planet back to the negotiating table?

- > Laurence Fischer, triple world karate champion and founder of Fight for Dignity
- > Anilore Banon, sculptor
- > Laurent Dupont, Director General of Peace and Sport

> 4th PLENARY CONFERENCE 5.00 PM • 7.00 PM | Plenary Tent

→ CONFERENCE: DEFINING A NEW PEACE

5.30 PM • 7.00PM

The dictionary defines peace as “a state where countries or nations are not at war”. According to this definition, France, to mention only this country, cannot be considered at war. But the vast majority of the French political class decreed that the country was “at war” in the aftermath of the January 2015 and November 2016 terrorist attacks. Peace should no longer be equated with a simple state of non-war between two nations but should now refer to a perpetually developing process.

WATCH

HISTORY THROUGH THEIR EYES

This exhibition is part of the Eyes project. Supported by the European Union, it aims to contribute to the understanding of the Second World War and building of Europe by citizens in order to draw the lessons from the past.

12 educational panels presented in the cloister of the Court of Honour

HURRY UP!

With the educational programme “Pressez-vous” (Hurry up!), students from the Caen-Cherbourg College of Arts and Media (ESAM) are working on the issues of images in comics, press drawings and photomontage. For this 2017-2018 forum, ESAM has partnered with the Higher institute of fine arts in Tunis and the Higher institute of arts and crafts in Sfax to address recent events in the Mediterranean area (the Arab Spring, the refugee crisis and the undermining of freedom).

MOSUL TO THE DEATH

After nine months of fighting ISIS, the Iraqi army supported by the international coalition freed the town of Mosul on 9 July 2017. It had been in Daesh's hands for three years. The old town has been devastated. This report by Laurence Geai tells of the last weeks of the battle, with its share of massacres, revenge and summary executions. It tells the story of human absurdity.

In partnership with the festival “Les femmes s'exposent” (Houlgate, 8 June to 16 July 2018).

FORGOTTEN CONFLICTS, CONFLICTS OF TOMORROW

NOOR - which means light in Arabic - is a collective of authors who investigate, inform and testify to the reality of the world and its ups and downs. As part of the 24th Bayeux-Calvados-Normandy award for war correspondents, NOOR presented a selection that reflects the major international issues of the 21st century.

50 photos are on display on the lawns and in the cloister of the Abbaye-Aux-Dames

In partnership with the Bayeux-Calvados-Normandy award for war correspondents (Bayeux, 8 to 14 October 2018)

BLACK BOX

In this “black box” will be broadcast loops of short films, provided by the Bayeux-Calvados-Normandy award, the French Red Cross, the International Institute for Human Rights and Peace and IRIS.

> 9.15 PM YOUSSEU NDOUR AND THE SUPER ÉTOILE DE DAKAR

The world famous Senegalese singer performs numbers from his latest album, Africa Rekk, released in late 2016: "A journey between modern Africa and traditional Africa, passing through different African cultures".

An ambassador of UNICEF and the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organisation (FAO), Youssou N'Dour is also a spokesman for the International Red Cross. In 2000, he created his own foundation for sustainable development and the rights of children.

He has held several key political positions in Senegal and is currently advisory minister to President Macky Sall.

On the musical scene, Youssou N'Dour has organised various major militant concerts, particularly for the benefit of Amnesty International. In 2004 he contributed to the disc Agir Réagir for the victims of the earthquake that shook the region of Al-Hoceima in Morocco. In 2007, he contributed to Make some Noises, a cover of the album Imagine by John Lennon, to resolve the crisis in Darfur.

"NORMANDY 1944 D-DAY BEACHES"

This evening on Omaha Beach is organised by the Normandy Region to support the proposed inscription of the D-Day beaches on the UNESCO World Heritage List. Having already received the support of more than 60,000 people including a number of personalities, the application will be examined in July 2019 by the World Heritage Committee.

PARTNERS

A major player in the energy transition, the EDF Group is an integrated energy company, active in all sectors: production, transport, distribution, trading, energy sales and energy services.

As a world leader in low-carbon energy, the Group has developed a diversified production mix, including nuclear energy, hydraulics, new renewable energy and thermal power. The Group supplies energy and services to around 35.1 million customers, including 26.5 million in France.

Through its Foundation, the EDF Group acts to promote international solidarity. A quarter of the world's population has no access to electricity: by mobilising the skills of its employees, the EDF Group responds to ensure that these people have access to essentials such as water, health, education and safety.

SNCF is one of the world's leading passenger transport and freight logistics groups with 32.3 billion euros in turnover in 2016, a third of which was international.

With its French railway base and significant expertise as a transport services provider, the Group employs 260,000 people in 120 countries. It aims to be the leading company in mobility and logistics in France and on the global stage. SNCF covers six different business areas: SNCF Réseau (management and operation of the French railway network), SNCF Voyageurs (transport in the Ile-de-France area, regional and inter-regional public transport, high-speed transport in France and Europe), SNCF Gares & Connexions (station management and development), SNCF Logistics (global freight transport and logistics), Keolis (mass-transit and public transport in Europe and around the world) and SNCF Immobilier (management and development of property and land).
